

ophelis docks, the successful product from ophelis for creating islands in the office can be seen at Orgatec 2016 and for the first time, with base frames made of solid wood. In addition to die-cast aluminum base frames in white, black or polished aluminum, there is now also a choice of oak, cherry and walnut. All soft furnishings, seating tables and the ophelis docks highbench are available in the new solid wood look. This creates an even warmer and cosier atmosphere.

With ophelis docks, a wide range of islands can be created in an open space: places for communication, hospitality, knowledge transfer, informal communication, creative project work and team meetings. ophelis docks is both meeting point and communal furniture and is also conducive to working in a lounge atmosphere. The ophelis docks stools and benches are flexible and a joy to use. The furniture system is freely configurable, modular and available with electrical adjustment.
